

Bibliographies and References

The Craft of Writing · By Simon Townsend · 1 min read

Now, regarding:

- copies of research articles
- copies of internet research
- bibliographies
- lists of references
- inventories
- thanks to everyone
- glossaries
- credits
- lists of contributors

They are not needed in mainstream publications. Only in academic publications. However, keep your own list and copies at home on standby in case your editor questions something. But don't send the list to your editor.

- He's not interested to read it
- He's certainly not going to check it out
- And of course he's not going to publish it

So if you send it to him, you only cause him great irritation in having to edit-out your unnecessary list.

Reprinted from The Wonderful World of Journalism. Written in the spirit of Simon Townsend's journalism craft advice. Visit simontownsendjournalist.com for the full archive.